

Rudd Center Resources

Terms of Use

1. All Rudd Center Resources are the property of the UConn Rudd Center for Food Policy & Health (the “Rudd Center”). The Rudd Center owns and retains the copyrights to all Rudd Center Resources that are uploaded to the Rudd Center website (www.uconnruddcenter.org). Any time you use or arrange for use of a Rudd Center Resource for any approved purpose, credit must be given to the UConn Rudd Center for Food Policy & Health in the following manner: Source: UConn Rudd Center for Food Policy & Health.

2. Approved Uses: Use of the Rudd Center Resources is limited to the following purposes:

- Television or digital news/media reporting;
- Noncommercial promotional materials (including, but not limited to videos promoting healthcare or community programs);
- Research and scientific purposes;
- Educational purposes; and
- Presentations to policy makers.

3. Rudd Center Resources may be used in full or edited into shorter segments to meet the needs of a news report or other noncommercial use.

4. Prohibited Uses: Commercial use of the Rudd Center Resources is prohibited.

Prohibited uses include, but are not limited to:

- Sale of retail items or materials intended for sale such as films or promotional materials;
- Advertising materials and/or campaigns in any medium intended to promote commercial, for-profit business;
- Any use that may promote bias or be harmful to the persons appearing in the Rudd Center Resources is strictly prohibited.
- Copying or forwarding the Rudd Center Resources without adherence to all Terms is a breach of copyright law and is strictly forbidden.